They passed from the guest-room behind the main building and saw that another building formed there the second side of a quadrangle. The other two sides were still open to the hazel coppice that here encroached upon the Abbey. However, there was traceable the foundations of new buildings to complete the quadrangle, and a mass of crimson hollyhocks were shining with rubied chalices in the quiet sunlight. For all its incompleteness, this was a strangely beautiful corner of the green world. Are these the cloisters Michael asked. One day, one day, replied Dom Cuthbert. A little rough at present, but before I die Im sure there will be a mighty edifice in this wood to the glory of God and His saints. Id like it best that way, said Michael. Not all at once. He felt an imaginative companionship with the aspirations of the Abbot. Now well visit the Chapel, said Dom Cuthbert. We built the Chapel with our own hands of mud and stone and laths. Youll like the Chapel. Sometimes I feel quite sorry to...
