Purchasers can usually download a free scanned copy of the original book (without typos) from the publisher. Not indexed. Not illustrated. 1911 edition. Excerpt: . . . I hear Flint Boys dog in the west at Bally mountain. All the people heard it and said, That is Flint Boys dog. He is married here at Bally mountain. By and by Flint Boy went out to hunt again, and gave the same instructions as before. The people made him bark as before, let him loose. Flint Boy heard him. I know what is the matter, said he. It grew cloudy. The dog said, It will rain. On the top of Bally mountain there was a great cloud, black and thick. The cloud came down over the dog, it swirled and rolled, and it went up in the air. The dog was in the cloud, he had called it and made it about himself. He did not want to be tied up, but to go with Flint Boy on his hunts. So he left Flint Boy and went up above. When he got part way up he barked, and the people heard it all over the world. Flint Boy heard it and was sad, for he knew the dog was lost. He never saw his dog again. Tlhataina lives in the black clouds still. When he barks, it thunders. VI. FIXING THE SUN. Sun lived at Hitsiriha, three miles up from Pawi. There was a small hill there of red earth. The people went out to hunt, but did not stay long. Sunset came quickly, the day was short. It was a great...
