Reviews

This type of publication is every thing and helped me seeking ahead and much more. It usually fails to charge too much. It is extremely difficult to leave it before concluding, once you begin to read the book.

In the lefthand figure it is again for the instant closing both pas sages. The slide-valve is in constant motion up and down, being driven by a kind of crank (called an eccentric) which revolves with the fly-wheel. Very often the feet of the slide-valve are lengthened, as in fig. 86, so as LIGHT. Chapter XIV. RECTILINEAR PROPAGATION. PLANE MIRRORS. 162. Light is known to us through our sense of sight. The things which we see send light to our eyes, and it is by means of the light so sent that we see them. Some bodies allow light to come through them, and are called transparent; others prevent it from passing, and are called opaque. An opaque body hides from us any object which lies upon the production of a straight line drawn from our eye to the opaque body. On the other hand, when we see an object through a hole in an opaque obstacle, the object so seen lies upon the production of a straight line drawn from our eye to the hole. It is thus proved that light travels in straight lines. A line along which light travels is called a ray, and the name is also applied in a loose sense to the light which travels along the line. As a lane has no breadth, every point of a visible object must be regarded as sending out an infinite number of rays in...
